The Water Power.

His Honor Mayor Tamm, the best chief magistrate Louisville ever had, deserves great credit for his wise carefulness and forethought in a suggestion in a recent message of a canal around the back of this city. This suggestion was made originally forty years ago. We have not examined the subject thoroughly, but undoubtedly it has much to recommend it. Our beautiful inland city could then stretch its arms across the Ohio, mills and manufacturers would spring up over the rushing falls, and industry would convert the obstacles of nature into a powerful servant of civilization.

The power recommended of Mayor Tamm was carried out and a careful examination was made by many of the committee and the committee reported a favorable report.

The Radicals, in their thankfulness over the victory, had better not "look the gift-horse in the mouth," as he has said a great many things that will not suit their theories but.

"As we fired off a 'pom' at Grant some months ago, we think of applying for the laurel wreath; if he sticks to his party, he will do twice as well as we simply by getting a sing-sing."

"Straws no longer show which way the wind blows, but where the julep goes.

The New Orleans Consulate, of the 24th ult., says: "A friend of ours, recently returned from a trip through St. Charles, parish, tells us that he respects the Radicals, but that he does not think that did not see a woman or child. On asking the reason of this, he said that he had been told that the Radical party had assumed so threatening an attitude that their own safety the dangerous portion of the population had been sent to the city."
